Legislative Update for the week ending 02/02/2018

Overview

It is the fourth week of session and it was quiet week for transportation, that was until Friday when the Governor directed the Florida Department of Transportation to implement actionable items from a post hurricane Irma report. The Department will work with fuel suppliers to make more fuel available during evacuations, look at improving traffic flow on Interstate 75 from the Turnpike at Wildwood to the Georgia border and look at installing additional traffic cameras to allow the department to be better able to keep traffic flowing by responding to crashes and other events more quickly. Readers will be reminded that the evacuation was the largest in history, nearly 7 million persons were ordered to evacuate. Hurricane Irma received plenty of news as she came to Puerto Rico and Florida, actually the after effects of the hurricane are still in the news on a regular basis.

There were plenty of distractions from passing bills in the committees as members worked on budgets in each chamber and other topics occupied the hours and days of our legislators. To be fair, the only constitutionally required task the legislature has is to pass a budget, so that obviously needs to take precedence over any other task. Other than the budget, in the news this week were articles about statues, supreme court rulings, sexual harassment and child marriages. It seems as if news was coming from all corners. A big piece of news to readers of the MPOAC Legislative Update is House Bill 33 by Toledo and Slosberg, it passed it's final committee stop with 20 Yeas and no opposition! Congratulations to Representatives Toledo and Slosberg in successfully moving their bill through all committee stops, now onto the House floor. The Senate companion by Perry (SB 90) has one more committee stop before heading to the Senate floor for it's full vote. These bills are part of MPOAC's legislative priorities and so we are very pleased to see these two bills advancing. We certainly don't want to jinx the efforts so far, please keep supporting these two bills.

Not nearly as flashy but certainly newsworthy is the progression of the budget efforts in both the House and Senate. The two chambers are about $100 Million dollars apart in their respective budget proposals which out of $87 Billion is workable. The budget amounts are larger than the current year budget of $84 Billion, lawmakers attribute the increase to a few items but the big one is hurricane spending. Where the big differences come into play are the member initiatives (read member projects). The amounts are roughly the same overall but the House budget has about half as many projects. In other words, the House budget includes larger priced items and the Senate budget has the money spread out to more projects. Members are conferring with each other to begin the process of resolving differences. Keep in mind that these projects are of all types, libraries, parks, water systems, etc. These member projects are not exclusive to transportation. In other budget details, senators want to spend nearly $400 million more on state universities, but the House wants to reduce their budgets by $216 million. The House budget sweeps $397 million from single-purpose budget accounts known as trust funds, and the Senate would sweep $124 million. Democrats are opposed to raids on two funds that build affordable housing.

Other happenings in the Capital city and around the Capitol itself included a proposal to replace the statue of a confederate general in the US Capitol with one of Mary McLeod Bethune. A judge ruled the Florida system to restore voting rights to felons is unconstitutional, legislators are still grappling with how to create rules for dealing with sexual harassment in state government. A sanctuary city bill appears to be stopped in the Senate and on the House side, the Speaker of the House agreed to a debate on the issue with Tallahassee Mayor and Gubernatorial candidate Andrew Gillum, the state's top health officials have been told they may not be paid their salaries until after they get some traction on applications for medical marijuana, legislation addressing child brides advanced, and Florida Forever funding ($100 Million annually) advanced in the Senate – remember the 2014 voter referendum, Amendment 1, that overwhelmingly passed? And gambling issues, well the discussions between the state, the Seminole tribe, fantasy sports betting, and other interests is..... Well, it is hard to say where this is going to end up. Then there are the perennial gun bills, this week a bill which would allow guns in churches attached to schools had to be modified to get past the Senate Judiciary Committee.

That's a wrap for this week. Grab a cup of coffee and enjoy this edition of the MPOAC Legislative Update.
